Intel Quad Core Processor

And you thought Dual Core was fast!

Intel is expected to introduce its quad-core Xeons on Nov 14, curiously enough a week -after- Dell announced it was ready to ship machines based on Intel quads. Dell plans to ship five two-socket blade servers, and three workstations fitted with quads.

Intel's announcement is expected to be four Quad flavors, three for servers and one workstation geared to gamers, with more CPU models planned for early '07. Looks like Intel wanted to get the quads out fast, to beat AMD to the game as AMD won't have quad Opterons until second quarter '07. You'll have to pay for this power though. These chips are not cheap yet.
